D. Desired Exchange Partners within MDH

While there are few systems that currently link, merge, or exchange data, there is a strong desire for this capability with other MDH information systems. The figure below is a pictorial representation of the various MDH systems and their expressed interest in being able to exchange information with other programs. There is significant interest at MDH to being able to link or exchange data between systems when appropriate; however, few plans are in place to do so.
