What is Ampers?

- An association of 18 independent community radio stations.
- Each station is locally managed and programmed by and for their communities.
- Stations create their own programming and do not rebroadcast programs from one main Twin Cities station.
- The stations primarily serve rural, minority and student communities not served by traditional media with programming in 12 languages.
- All are licensed as non-commercial educational stations.

Why Fund Ampers?

- Stations provide in-depth information about local government, educational and health news, safety concerns, and provide local artists access to the airwaves.
- The stations are extremely efficient relying heavily on volunteers.
- Ampers stations help to train more than 1,300 students each year.
- Stations provide critical emergency information in some cases providing local officials with the only immediate opportunity to disseminate lifesaving information.
What is the difference between Ampers and Minnesota Public Radio?

There are two types of public radio in Minnesota, the Minnesota Public Radio (MPR) network and the smaller local community radio stations. The smaller grassroots community stations created the Association of Minnesota Public Education Radio Stations (Ampers) in 1972.

The Ampers stations, Minnesota Public Radio, and Minnesota Public Television are not affiliated financially in any way other than the fact that all three receive state and federal funding because they are prohibited from selling commercials.
