House Education Finance Committee
Wednesday, March 30, 2022

Background Information

HF3506 (Erickson) extends school counseling services to students enrolled in nonpublic schools or in an American Indian-controlled contract or grant school.

Under current law, students enrolled in nonpublic schools or an American Indian-controlled contract or grant school have access to school counseling services for grades 7-12. These services provide students with personal, social development and mental health services and provide referral assistance, when necessary. The resident school district provides either staff or contracts for the services and the school district receives reimbursement from the state.

We know the need mental health and other services is needed before grade 7. We also know the importance of early intervention. Furthermore, many students will attend both a public and nonpublic schools during the course of their education from grades K-12. This legislation helps ensure a continuum of care for students.

There are several organizations supporting this legislation including MINNDEPENDENT, Minnesota Catholic Conference, the Jewish Community Relations Council, Lutheran Church Missouri Synod and other organizations as part of the Nonpublic Education Partners.

MAIS member schools differ in many ways. They are secular, religious, single-gender, day and boarding schools, and some pedagogically based, but all support providing families with choice in education. Not only do MAIS schools save Minnesota tax dollars, which would otherwise have been spent in educating children in public schools, but MAIS students also represent Minnesota at myriad colleges and universities and often end up giving back to the state in a variety of leadership roles. Additionally, MAIS schools provide a number of vital jobs for adults living in Minnesota.

More about MAIS school communities:

- Total enrollment in MAIS schools for the 2019-2020 school year was over 9,000 students, saving taxpayers potentially $100,000,000 that would be spent educating students in district schools.
- MAIS schools' combined annual budgets are over $386.1 million dollars.
- MAIS schools employ over 3,400 full-time and part-time workers in Minnesota.
