Overview

The legislature elects members to the University of Minnesota's Board of Regents. This bill requires that one such member be a university faculty member. It also addresses how redistricting and reapportionment of Minnesota's congressional districts would affect the current law providing that each congressional district be represented on the board. Finally, it changes the current process for electing regents by, among other things, eliminating the Regent Candidate Advisory Council (RCAC) and moving its responsibilities to the Joint Legislative Committee for regent nomination.

For more information about the current procedure for regent election, see the House Research publication Election of University of Minnesota Regents.
