Overview

This bill modifies penalties, enforcement, and rider assistance activities related to public transit. Among its provisions, the bill:

- directs the Metropolitan Council to create a Transit Riders Investment Program to improve the transit experience, as funds are available;
- specifies training requirements and duties of Transit Riders Investment Program (TRIP) personnel under the program, which include monitoring passenger activity, providing information and referrals to social services, performing inspections to verify fare payment, and issuing administrative citations;
- authorizes administrative citations as an alternative to a judicial penalty for violations related to (1) nonpayment of fares, falsified fares, or failure to show proof of payment; and (2) some specified passenger conduct activities;
- reduces the judicial penalty for fare-related as well as passenger conduct violations, lowering it from a misdemeanor to a petty misdemeanor and decreasing the amounts; and
- appropriates $1 million from the general fund in fiscal year 2020 to implement the program on the light rail transit system for a six-month pilot period.

Under current law, both fare-related violations and passenger conduct violations carry a misdemeanor penalty with a $100 base fine and a $75 court surcharge (totaling $175 with other fees potentially applying). The bill reduces the penalty level and creates two separate options for enforcement: (1) as a petty misdemeanor treated as a payable offense but potentially following a judicial process in the courts, with a base fine of $10 and court surcharge of $25 (totaling at least $35); or (2) through an administrative citation administered by the Metropolitan Council, with a fine amount that can range from $35 to $100 as set by the council. A fare-related or passenger conduct violation could only be enforced through one or the other of the options.
