

Long-Term Care Consultation Services Recodification

May 2022

Long-term care consultation services: (1) assist people with long-term or chronic care needs in making decisions about long-term services and supports that meet their needs and reflect their preferences; and (2) assist people to transition out of nursing homes. The goal of long-term care consultation services is to contain costs associated with unnecessary institutional admissions. Long-term care consultation services are available to anyone with long-term or chronic care needs, regardless of public program eligibility.

The long-term care consultation services statutes were recodified in 2022 (Laws 2022, ch. 98, article 16). The table below shows the new coding and where the language was coded prior to July 1, 2022.
